The Danger of Casting Evil Spells

Pioneers in the art and science of Witchcraft knew about the cause and effect relationships between our actions and the result of these actions. If we believe that we have been wronged, many of us get angry and frustrated and wish we could do something to make the hurt go away.

We human beings have this need (or greed?) to see the results of our actions immediately and we feel that we are powerless to prevent anyone from abusing us. However, this is far from true. Only time will tell who is righteous and who is evil.

Young people are usually restless, full of energy and eager to act. Most even do so without thinking about the consequences. However, we all need to know this one rule; all our actions do have consequences! And it may show up today or many years from now!

We may be too busy in life to notice the results of our actions. And most of us are not clairvoyant enough to see the big picture which includes all of the mistakes we have made in our numerous lives before this one. So we believe that unless we see immediate results, what we do is of no consequence. Alas, when the results return to us, most of us do not even connect it with the appropriate past actions.

To understand how our negative or evil actions damage our own life, we have to think very deeply about the Universe, how it was formed, why we are here and where we go after death. Deep questions, aren't they? These are questions that most religions do not have sensible answers for.

The Wiccan Rede in essence states that "Do what you will, as long as it hurts no one". What exactly does that mean? It will take a lot of research and introspection before we understand the depth of this statement.

Take war for instance. Both sides assume that they are right. Of course, they fight until one of them gives up after a lot of bloodshed or economic damage. The other side is victorious and may even declare that they won the war. What do you think? Are there winners and losers in any war? We all lose in one way or another because we are all connected in a special way. If I hurt you, its similar to hurting myself!

Science and research tells us that we can all trace ourselves back to one or two people who first came into this world. It doesn't matter if we are brown, black or white, we are all related in some way! Isn't that wonderful? How would we feel about hurting our own brethren?

The power of our mind is limitless. We can take our emotions to the highest possible joy or to the lowest depths of depression just by our thoughts.

The majority of the people in this world do not believe in hell or heaven. Rather, they believe that our life on Earth is the main goal of life. Why we came here, what our pre-birth goals are and how we can prepare to achieve them.

Many of the ancient cultures believed that we are here on earth to increase our spiritual awareness. Those who get angry with minimal provocation and think about revenge and retaliation or who live without any discipline in life are believed to be on the lowest rungs of the ladder of spirituality. Those who are unperturbed by outside disturbances and remain calm despite provocation are believed to be more evolved and spiritually wise.

The Wiccan Rede reminds us of our responsibilities as a powerful individual on this Earth. One small mistake can come back to haunt us later. This type of feedback helps us to become more aware of our responsibilities in bringing this world together with love rather than destroying it with hatred.

As we come up with spells to create our various wishes, it's a good idea to keep in mind the possible repercussions of each of our decisions. It is not easy to think through what could happen when our spells are sent out into the Universe to manifest in our life as well as to make changes in other people's lives.

Many of us cannot foresee into the next day; forget seeing way into the future! The least we can do is to use our brains and scan our intentions to see if there is even a speck of possibility that someone could get hurt by our action. If there is such a possibility, it is better to re-visualize the scenarios and earnestly request the Energies to ignore your wishes if it hurts anyone else. This is the easiest way to avoid any negative repercussions.

As we progress towards a better understanding of why we are here, what our purpose is, and how best we can move towards enlightenment and lasting joy, we will become more aware of our actions and learn how to avoid evil thoughts and deeds.

"Wisdom" is understanding that we have the freedom to choose our actions and learn from its reactions. As we learn more about the way the world works, we usually open our hearts and see others in a new light. We are all in this together. We may do wrong, but we also learn from it and move on. We have to offer the same kind of treatment to others when they make mistakes too.

The snowball effect of each of our spells should be a growth of joy and hope in this world. We need to help each other realize and attain the purpose which we came to this planet for. We all know that love binds while hate destroys. As humans trying to survive together on this planet and beyond, we have a responsibility to preserve and treasure our environment for civilizations to come.

We should never allow anyone to abuse us or coerce us into anything we do not wish to take part in. Always remember that we are powerful entities in our own right. Our power should enable us to believe in ourselves so much that we can forgive easily the minor mistakes that other people make everyday without wishing to retaliate instantly.

Listen to the wise old people who have been here much longer than most of us. They will tell you that to be happy, you need to build up a positive bank account of happiness that you GIVE to others. By always helping others and never hurting others, we are the ones who will move towards a peaceful and joyous life.
