Three Protection from Black Magic Spells

Black magic spells are sometimes cast with the intention of hurting others. It could be a revenge spell for someone who may have knowingly or unknowingly hurt the giver. Black magic is powerful because the energy, regardless of whether its benevolent or malevolent, has the power to affect the individual's life. All energy, however, can be prevented from entering our aura by creating a protective shield around us.

Here are some spells which may be used to protect yourself or your family from the effects of evil spells.

Yemaya Spell

The powerful Orisha (protective spirit) Yemaya was known as one who cared for the safety of animals as well as humans. Create a protective shield by offering her this token:

Get a whole fish from the market. Also get some paper and a pen and write down the names of your enemies or those who have the capability to harm you. Fold the paper and push it into the fish's mouth. If the mouth is too small, make a slit in the belly and keep the list there. Close the mouth or belly slit with pins.

Cover the fish with molasses and place it in the cast circle near the altar for Yemaya. Light blue and white candles around the fish and burn some strong incense for seven days. At the end of seven days, place seven silver coins inside the fish and throw the fish and everything in it into the Sea. Yemaya will create a protective shield around you that will not allow any evil energies to penetrate and harm you.

Witch's Bottle Protection Spell

Witch bottles were always very popular with people who were afraid of getting curses or hexes directed at them. Here is one way to create a witch's bottle so that you and everyone in your home will be protected.

Get a ceramic, glass or metal bottle. Add three pins, three nails and three needles to the bottle. Fill the bottle with salt. Add three drops of menstrual blood or prick your little finger and get a drop of blood to add to the magickal bottle. Seal this bottle and bury it under the hearth of outside but very close to your home.

Conjure Bag Protection

People love to carry charms or trinkets that they consider lucky. Here is a charm bag that will additionally keep you from harm's way:

Add a pinch of sulfur powder, kohl powder, henna powder, graveyard dust and tobacco to a small red pouch. Close the pouch tight and take it around with you wherever you go.

Vetiver Shield

Get some essential oil of Vetiver. Using an aroma burner, heat the essential oil of Vetiver and allow it to diffuse through the home. Sit nearby and inhale deeply while you visualize ill intentions being pushed away from your home and family. Imagine a vetiver scented aura enveloping you and those you love.
